

Biobutanol

From Appropedia

Biobutanol is an alternative biofuel that can be blended with gasoline and ethanol. Biobutanol is produced from sugar beets, corn, sorghum, wheat, sugar cane, and cassava.

Subcategories and articles are linked from the bottom of this page. Please add links and information to this category page by clicking the edit tab above.

Biobutanol is an alternative biofuel that can be blended with gasoline and ethanol. Biobutanol is produced from sugar beets, corn, sorghum, wheat, sugar cane, and cassava.

The production of biobutanol is good for farmers because it supports the production of agriculture feedstocks that are used in biofuel production.

Biobutanol is superior to ethanol in its lower vapor pressure and increased water contamination tolerance.

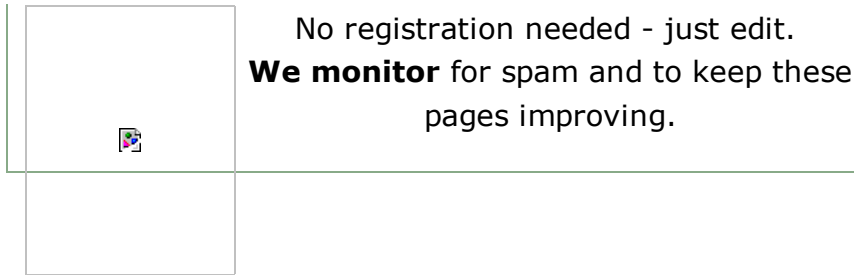

Contents

- 1 Introduction
- 2 Projects
- 3 Footnotes
- 4 Interwiki links

Introduction

This page is a "stub" - it needs more content.

You are invited to add your knowledge (<index1881.html?title=Biobutanol&action=edit>) .

Projects

http://www.osti.gov/energycitations/product.biblio.jsp?osti_id=5250695

- <http://sleekfreak.ath.cx:81/3wdev/VITAHTML/SUBLEV/EN1/WOODWAST.HTM>
- <http://www.fao.org/ag/AGA/AGAP/frg/lrrd/lrrd10/1/doel101.htm>
- http://www.fao.org/documents/show_cdr.asp?url_file=/docrep/T0115E/T0115E0h.htm
- <http://www.arapahoe.edu/aboutacc/assessment/CHE/05S-06P.pdf>

To create a page related to Biobutanol

- First browse the articles and subcategories below for examples and possible collaborations.
- Type a proposed name for the project, organization, thesis, how to or other

Biobutanol related resource in the following create box.

- Add information. Do not worry about formatting or completeness, others will help and changes are easily made. Be BOLD.

This topic needs a topic expert

Footnotes

Interwiki links

- Wikipedia:Biobutanol

Retrieved from "<http://www.appropedia.org/Biobutanol>"

Categories: Stubs | Pages needing a topic expert | Alcohol fuels

- [1 watching user]
 - Page was last modified 09:54, 11 April 2010. Based on work by Chriswaterguy's bot, Chriswaterguy, Curt Beckmann and Lonny Grafman, Appropedia anonymous user 24.118.113.112 and others.
 - Text is available under CC-BY-SA
-