Baby made from two mothers and one father

The first "three parent baby" will be born in September 1998, following a revolutionary IVF technique where two mothers donated different parts of a human egg before fertilisation.

The cell cytoplasm or contents around the nucleus was removed from the egg of a young woman and injected into a defective egg from an older woman. The older woman will provide 99% of her half of the genes, and the second woman will provide 1%.

After fertilisation, the developing embryo was implanted into the older woman's womb.

The method is an alternative to egg donation for an older woman, where she lands up carrying a child that is not hers genetically.

The procedure carries risks of genetic abnormalities as well as emotional risks for the children, whose identity may be called into question. The technique is legal under British law and in many other nations, although it is illegal to manipulate the genes of a fertilised embryo.

It is found in Uganda (the Pearl of Africa) in the capital city, Kampala. Students have acquired skills, used the Internet for Research, got email addresses and participated in the Tele-Collaborative Projects e.g. Wetlands Project, AIDS Project etc.

I believe this is the way forward for us as Uganda to put Computer Technology into practice and in our day-to-day life instead of studying Computer Science as a subject in schools. For instance, using Computer Aided Designing for Technical Drawing, etc.

Thanks for visiting their web site. Hope you will have a nice time with us and hope you will be back again. We will also be glad to have you as one of your members.

For three reasons

Music

Music is the use of sound to create harmony. It however, is a very broad subject considering the fact that it is based on a variety of cultures across the earth.

My concern is the production of electronic music. Electronic music is vey popular and very good to use. The electronic keyboard is the instrument of focus.

This is a very versatile instrument that can perform the functions of a full size band. However I am to give you the basic concepts that will make you an excellent keyboardist!!

Music

Basic Keyboard Concepts:

- Operation of the Keyboard
- Chords.

Keyboard Operations

The operation of the keyboard involves some basic moves.

They include:

Auto bass chord which is used to control the bass part of the accompaniment that is the fingered [single, multi] chords and the melody accompaniment.

Control panels like the tempo, transposition, and numerous others.

Tracks and digital sampling, may also exist. This is a facility that allows one to compose original music in a flavoured way depending on one's creativity.

Chords

The chords in music are a combination of two or more musical notes to form a harmonious work. Chords are so many that they can't be exhausted.

But however, it should be realised that, the knowledge of more chords is the key to producing good music.

The music that we hear is from the three basic chords, [doh mi soh], [soh ti ray] and [fah la do], all in the solfa notation.

About Me

[My
portfolio](#)

My best work

As an eighth grader at Alta Sierra I strive for excellence. I set high goals and try to accomplish them the best to my ability. I am an athlete who works hard in everything I do.

Hobbies/Interests

I am involved in school sports as well as club teams. This year I was on the indoor volleyball team for school and I played club volleyball. I was also on the swimming and diving team. Over the summer I participate in D.A.R.E. Camp (a non-profit camp for kids) where I volunteer 3 weeks to be a counselor. Other hobbies are horseback riding, watching TV, and talking on the phone.

Other Information

This year I was in the Peer Counseling program and I was selected to be part of the Peer Mediation group at Alta Sierra. I am involved in two school clubs: FCA and CJSF. FCA stands for Fellowship of Christian Athletes and we meet at lunch. CJSF is for the students that get straight A's or one B.
