

TOC*INDEX*VIEW*O28 High Performance Computing by Brian Lewis, Microsoft

Some of the toughest computing challenges in the world are tackled and often solved by using high performance computing (HPC) clusters. Companies can now deploy clusters of servers running Windows Server 2003 to benefit from supercomputing power at a fraction of the cost. Come look at Microsoft's vision for HPC and how we are already doing business in this space.