1.7 Conventions used in this guide

This publication uses several conventions for special terms and actions, operating system-dependent commands and paths, and margin graphics.

Typeface conventions

This publication uses the following typeface conventions:

Bold

- Lowercase commands and mixed case commands that are otherwise difficult to distinguish from surrounding text.
- Interface controls (check boxes, push buttons, radio buttons, spin buttons, fields, folders, icons, list boxes, items inside list boxes, multicolumn lists, containers, menu choices, menu names, tabs, property sheets), labels (such as Tip: and Operating system considerations:)
- Keywords and parameters in text.

Italics

- Citations (examples: titles of publications, diskettes, and CDs)
- Words defined in text (example: a nonswitched line is called a point-to-point line)
- Emphasis of words and letters (words as words example: "Use the word that to introduce a restrictive clause."; letters as letters example: "The LUN address must start with the letter L.")
- New terms in text (except in a definition list): a view is a frame in a workspace that contains data.
- Variables and values you must provide (example: ...where myname represents...)

Monospace

- Examples and code examples.
- File names, programming keywords, and other elements that are difficult to distinguish from surrounding text.
- Message text and prompts addressed to the user.
- Text that the user must type.
- Values for arguments or command options.

Operating system-dependent variables and paths

This publication uses the UNIX convention for specifying environment variables and for directory notation. When using the Windows® command line, replace $variable with % variable% for environment variables and replace each forward slash (/) with a backslash (\) in directory paths. The names of environment variables are not always the same in the Windows and UNIX environments. For example, %TEMP% in Windows environments is equivalent to $TMPDIR in UNIX environments.

Note: If you are using the bash shell on a Windows system, you can use the UNIX conventions.

To install version 1.2 IF0001, version 1.2 must first be uninstalled, then the Tivoli Netcool Customer Experience Manager Module for GSM Voice Service version 1.2 IF0001 Installation Guide must be followed.

The installation procedure requires 2 software distributions of the Tivoli Netcool Customer Experience Manager Module for GSM Voice Service module :

- Tivoli Netcool Customer Experience Manager for GSM Voice Service module version 1.2, available to download from Xtreme Leverage

5.2 Service module model version

Note: The Tivoli Netcool Customer Experience Manager Module for GSM Voice Service version 1.2 IF0001 Installation Guide requires the person installing the software to input the service module name, data source name and model version of this service module.

The service module name, data source name(s) and model version of this service module, are as follows:

- Module name = cem_gsm_voice
- Data source name = prb
- Model version = 1.2

5.3 Default resource mapping

This service module supports Tivoli Netcool Service Quality Manager "Default Resource" instances. These are provided so that data with the following characteristics can be processed and stored by the service module adapter:

- Any data row that contains resource type references that cannot be recognised against the provisioned resource set
- Any data row that has missing references to one or more resource types

In each of these cases the reference is attributed to the "default resource" instance of that resource type. For example if the resource type is "Enterprise" then the default resource for that resource type is named "unknown_Enterprise". To all other intents and purposes the default resource can be treated the same as any other instance of the resource type. The service module produces KPI values for the default resource and these can be monitored for diagnostic purposes if required.

If a customer does not wish to have any default resource metrics created, the default resource instances can be safely deleted through the Tivoli Netcool Service Quality Manager user interface or through the provisioning broker. Any data rows matching the characteristics detailed previously are subsequently not included for any KPI metrics.
